An Old Favorite

By Rien Baucoult

THE Wearing of the green," long one of Ireland's favorite songs, is quoted in Warner's "Library of the World's Best Literature: A Plain English Series," the latest dramatic actor and manager. He was born in Dublin in 1822 and died in New York in 1875. Among his plays are "Old Hearts and Young Hearts," "Colleen Bawn," "Arrah-na-Pogue" and "The Sherrifs."

PADDO cheer, and did you fear the news that's going round?
The shamrock is forbid by law to grow on Irish ground.
Saint Patrick's day no more we'll keep his colors can't be worn
For there's a bloody line again the swearing of the green, net with Napoleon. Tally, and by Golly, by the God we did say, "How's poor old Ireland, and how does she stand?"
Is the most disastrous country that ever eye was seen;
Are her hanging men and women for the swearing of the green.

ph, if the color we must wear in England's verd red, sure Ireland's sons will never forget the blood that they have shed, on Italy take the shankree from your hat and cast it on the sod, but I will not put it on the floor, those, those are kinder words,
 When I can stop the blades of grass from growing as they grow, and when the leaves of summer time their verdure dare not show, then I will change the color that I wear in my emblem;
 but till that day, please God, I'll stick to wearing of the green.

But if at last our color should be torn from Ireland's heart,
To be torn with shame and sorrow from their dear and pale wall part;
To be torn a wholeness of a country that lies from the sea,
Where the young and poor stand round in the light of freedom's day,
A crime, must we leave you, driven by a tyrant's hand;
Just we ask a mother's blessing from a strange and distant land?
Where the cruel cross of England shall nevermore be seen,
And where, please God, will live and die still wearing of the green.

Life Transposed Story.
 "I understood that you were a son in the civil war," queried the strikers of the one prison man who asked for advice.
 "Well, I thought I was up to freedom,
 but now I dream," was the reply.
 "That happened yesterday?"

Down on the Farm.
Mrs. [Name]—How is your amount of living in the country, sir?
[Name]—Mrs. How is your life? It isn't so bad as I might expect. It costs no more expense to have our butter and vegetables brought out to us free of charge, but we don't have to come so heavily as much company. —S.

Not Guilty.

A Puzzled Parent.

"It is a difficult problem," says psychoanalysts warn, "very difficult."

"What is worrying you?" asks wife.

As a Victim.

Mr. Billus: Why did you tell Kluge you suffered greatly and freely?

Mr. Billus: What was the Marin's? I didn't explain to him

A Wonderful Show.

It is probably safe to say that no other show in the Frisco has been so successful as the one which is now being presented at the Frisco. The show is a most wonderful little play in the nature of a comedy, and it is so well acted that it is hard to believe that it is not a masterpiece of the art.

A serious French fan. "I was, William was too, but I was not so much there in Paris where some French dealers was using our name and what did William do?"

"backed on while the principals and the air with their swords. Finally got tired and was going away as they brought out pistols."

"both fired at the World, and one shot drove it from the face of God, and the other a new in the face of Him, and the hole in William's hat."

"that old William shot?"

... got mad and closed the whole
... two miles through the woods, lost

When WPC ran the negative battery for nothing, a faint beeping sound. McBurnie coughed so heavily, even when he had the bag, and told me that he would find it a mess. The bag was recovered in contents intact and will be used to the same.

Now that the goods have been seized it is not likely that they will be processed against the owner but he has the serious charge of attempting to track, find and return the public property to the owner. For this offense he will be liable for the State a year.

Sheriff Smith took the new Stigma yesterday and a Sheriff Turner, who took the car to Deland where he is a field.

Real Estate.

Now is the time to make investments in Daytona real estate while hundreds of people are making lots of money through investments, and some are getting rich, there are still a lot who have not yet awakened to the fact that there is now a chance to invest a small amount of their money within a 30-day and possibly six-month time frame of living. Much has recently changed here and daily parties can be seen everywhere with the idea of making money.

Corwin Succeeds Hawkin

Frank L. Cornia, formerly freight agent of the Georgia Railway, has been a commercial agent of the road, with headquarters at Albany, since Walter Hawkins, who has become general agent of the Atlanta Freight Co. Mr. Cornia is one of the most popular railmen in the State, and is well known here for his spent several such seasons hustling for over his road.

AT THE DAYTONA OPERA HOUSE

The Varied Attractions Already Scheduled Should Attract Many of The Visitors.

For the season already open the Opera-House has a greater variety of attractions scheduled than ever before, the standard also of the attractions booked has been raised.

The Gaiety-Palazzo Co., here for the rest of the week, will tonight present "A Man of Mystery," Thursday night "Working Girls' Warnings" and Friday night "The Two Orphans." On Saturday afternoon there will be a matinee at which they will present "Picks Bad Boy," closing their engagement. Saturday with "A Thoroughbred Tramp."

"Farmer Hopkins" will be here Monday night, February 27.

Wm. H. and E. R. Jocelyn, who have invested over $12,000 in the "Congress of Nations and Ben Hur," will be here Tuesday night, February 28, with over 300 colored photographic slides which extend the full length and height of the stage.

On Tuesday, March 14th the Choral Society will again favor the public with a concert. This Society has never failed to draw large houses and the music is of a high order. Prof. Blount, the leader, has worked faithfully and better music than usual may be looked for.

Prof. Wm. Patty will lecture on radium, liquid air and wireless telegraphy on Friday, March 17th. Mr. Patty will bring with him a large amount of apparatus and give practical demonstrations during the lecture.

several of the intervening cases will undoubtedly be filled shortly. Murray Osborn is in correspondence with advance agents now, and expects to be able to announce further dates, soon.

PATRONIZE HOME MERCHANTS

Let the Peddler Seek Other Fields. The Latter Pays No Taxes.

As usual at this season of the year Daytona is filled with a certain class of people who peddle goods from door to door or solicit orders on what they claim to be a club plan, taking away from the regular merchants their legitimate trade. These people pay no taxes here nor have they, in many instances, any interests here whatever except in so far as they may be enabled to make others bear the expense of their winter's outing. Speaking of this the Jacksonville Metropolis makes some timely remarks which are applicable to the situation here. The Metropolis says:

Yes, stand by those who are our personal and commercial friends. Merchants who are permanent citizens and assist in every way possible to build up and improve the town.

This nuisance of calling at houses to sell articles of merchandise is wrong in every sense of the word. These peddlers have no interest in our people and city, beyond what money they can get out of them. Some of them are only peddling to see good chances to come at night to rob. They pay no taxes nor contribute a cent to any worthy object here. They may be wealthy people at their homes, and think it shrewd to make expenses while wintering in Florida by making a house-to-house call daily to sell something, in most instances of little value.

Every article they offer can be bought here in stores from merchants of reliability and respectability.

It is wrong in our people to patronize these tramps, who come here for a day or two, and encourage such underhanded business against our merchants. The home merchant is a friend to the people of his town. He has a natural sympathy for all worthy objects, which cannot even be expected of the roving peddler. If in distress, the home merchants will assist in relief, but the strangers

Auction Party at The Bennett.

The guests at The Bennett enjoyed a jolly evening in the form of an auction party, over fifty of the guests participating. During the afternoon packages (contents unknown) were handed in at the desk. Promptly at 8:00 p. m., Mr. J. G. Steever, of Chicago, acting as auctioneer, began the sale. After spirited bidding, all were sold. As each received their purchase it was opened in the presence of the assembly, causing merriment and laughter. After the sale refreshments were served.

Freeze Did Little Damage.

Despite the recent vigorous efforts of Jack Frost, he lacked a great deal of destroying the fruit, vegetables and berry crops in Florida, for these products of the land of flowers are already invading the frozen North and incidentally executing successful assaults upon plethora pocket-books, says the Jacksonville Metropolis.

No less than 1,800 crates of fruit and vegetables and twenty-six refrigerator boxes of strawberries passed through Jacksonville yesterday, in care of the Southern Express Company, en route to New York and Boston.

The fruits were pineapples and oranges and the vegetables were lettuce and beans.

The twenty-six boxes of strawberries averaged eighty quarts to the box and were from Lakeland. The strawberry plants were not injured, only some of the forward blooms being nipped by the frost.

The orange crop was not damaged nearly as badly as thought, and the shipments of this fruit are daily growing heavier. It is now positively asserted that the tender fruit-bearing wood of the trees was not killed, as was first believed.

The tomato crop was not injured at all as when the freeze occurred the young plants had not been transplanted from the hot beds. This has now been done, however, and in a very short time the shipping of tomatoes will begin.

An Old Favorite

THE WEARING OF THE GREEN

By Dion Boucicault

"THE Wearing of the Green," long one of Ireland's favorite songs, is credited to Warner "Halcyon" of the World's Best Literature, to Dion Boucicault, the famous dramatist, actor and manager. He was born in Dublin in 1822 and died in New York in 1891. Among his plays are "Old Heads and Young Hearts," "Colleen Bawn," "Arrah-na-Pogue" and "The Shamrockan."

O. PADDY dear, and did you hear the news that's going round? The shamrock is forbid by law to grow on Irish ground; Saint Patrick's day no more we'll keep, his colors can't be seen: For there's a bloody law agin' the wearing of the green. I met with Napper Tandy, and he took me by the hand, And he said, "How's poor old Ireland, and how does she stand?" She's the most distresful country that ever yet was seen: They are hanging men and women for the wearing of the green.

Oh, if the color we must wear is England's cruel red, Sure Ireland's sons will ne'er forget the blood that they have shed. You may take the shamrock from your hat and cast it on the sod, But 'twill take root and flourish there, though under foot 'tis trod. When law can stop the blades of grass from growing as they grow, And when the leaves of summer time their verdure dare not show, Then I will change the color that I wear in my caubreen; But till that day, please God, I'll stick to wearing of the green.

But if at last our color should be torn from Ireland's heart, Her sons with shame and sorrow from their dear old isle will part: I've heard a whisper of a country that lies beyond the sea, Where rich and poor stand equal in the light of freedom's day, O Erin, must we leave you, driven by a tyrant's hand? Must we ask a mother's blessing from a strange and distant land? Where the cruel cross of England shall ne'er be seen, And where, please God, we'll live and die still wearing of the green.

His Temporary Story.

"Do I understand that you were a soldier in the civil war?" queried the pedestrian of the one armed man who had asked for alms. "Well, I thought I was up to yesterday, but now I dunno," was the reply. "What happened yesterday?" "Why, one of these fellows you call statisticians doubted my story and soon figured out that I was only six months old when the war broke out and consequently couldn't have been there. I've got to get up something new, I suppose, and meanwhile, as a temporary thing, you can put it down that I tried to make a short cut by crawling under a street car and in that way lost this arm." Brooklyn Eagle.

Not Guilty.

Sunday School Teacher—Tommy, can you tell me who threw the stone that struck Goliath? Tommy—Ye kin search me. Our street's all tore up, an' dey ain't no automobiles. Brooklyn Life.

A Serious French Duel.

"Yes, William was passing by a vacant lot some place in Paris where one of these French duels was going on." "And what did William do?" "He looked on while the principals jabbed the air with their swords. Finally he got tired and was going away when they brought out pistols." "Yes." "Both fired at the word, and one shot grazed a tree in the next field, and the other bore a hole in William's hat." "What did William do?" "He got mad and chased the whole party two miles through the woods, but the only man he could catch was the doctor." "What did he do to the doctor?" "He kicked a hole in his surgical case, traded hits with him and let him go." Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Down on the Farm.

Mrs. Upward: How is your experiment of living in the country succeeding? Mrs. Hyems: It isn't so bad as you might expect. It costs us more, of course, to have our butter and fresh vegetables brought out to us from the city, but we don't have to entertain nearly as much company. — Scottish American.

A Puzzled Parent.

"It is a difficult problem," said the conscientious man, "very difficult." "What is worrying you?" asked his wife. "If I use slang before our sons and daughters it will encourage them in the practice, and if I don't they will say I am a back number." Washington Star.

As a Victim.

Mrs. Billus: Why did you tell Mr. Kajones you suffered greatly from cold feet? Mr. Billus—What was the harm, Maria? I didn't explain to him that it was your cold feet I suffered from. — Chicago Tribune.

A Wonderful Boy.

It is probably safe to say not only that little Franz von Vecsey is the most wonderful little boy in the world, but that he offers to science as difficult a problem as any it knows. Here is a child just turning eleven who is not merely master of all the technique of the violin, but plays the most profound music, even that of Bach, like a genius of mature years. One's conclusions as to musical genius were simply confirmed on hearing from his mother that this child practices only two hours a day and often less. Yet he is absolutely master of the most difficult music written in order to show off their own technique. Explain it how we may, it is the fact that musical genius is the earliest to manifest itself, and in no other squares of human activity can a child of eleven be an acknowledged master. — Pall Mall Gazette.

A Guest of the County

Wm. Withers, the negro arrested yesterday for stealing a chatelain bag belonging to Mrs. Bernard, acknowledged yesterday evening that he had the bag and told Marshal Zuber that he would find it in Waycross. The bag was recovered with the contents intact and will be returned to the owner.

Now that the goods have been returned it is not likely that the charge will be pressed against the negro, but he has the serious charge of attempting to break jail and destruction of public property to answer for. For this offense he will probably be work for the State a year. Deputy Sheriff Smith took the negro to New Smyrna yesterday and was met by Sheriff Turner, who took the prisoner to Deland where he will be tried.

Real Estate.

Now is the time to make profitable investments in Daytona real estate, and while hundreds of people are making lots of money through wise investments, and some are actually getting rich, there are still those who have not yet awakened to the fact that there is now a chance for them to invest a small amount and double their money within one year, and possibly six months without any chance of losing. Much property has recently changed hands here and daily parties can be seen looking over property with the idea of buying.

Corwin Succeeds Hawkins

Frank L. Corwin, formerly traveling freight agent of the Central of Georgia Railway, has been appointed commercial agent of the same road, with headquarters at Jacksonville, vice Walter Hawkins, resigned to become general agent of the Consolidated Fruit Co. Mr. Corwin is one of the most popular railroad men in the State, and is well known here where he has spent several months each season hustling for freight over his road.

AT THE DAYTONA OPERA HOUSE

The Varied Attractions Already Scheduled Should Attract Many of the Visitors.

For the season already open the Opera House has a greater variety of attractions scheduled than ever before, the standard also of the attractions booked has been raised.

The Gagnon-Pollock Co., here for the rest of the week, will tonight present "A Man of Mystery." Thursday night "Working Girls' Wrongs" and Friday night "The Two Orphans." On Saturday afternoon there will be a matinee at which they will present "Peck's Bad Boy," closing their engagement Saturday with "A Thoroughbred Tramp."

Chris L. Fields, the famous humorist, will talk about "Some Things" Tuesday evening, February 21. The Times Union, in a letter to Manager Osborn, speaks very highly of Mr. Fields.

"Farmer Hopkins" will be here Monday night, February 27.

Wm. H. and E. B. Josselyn, who have invested over $1,000 in the "Congress of Nations and Ben Hur," will be here Tuesday night, February 28, with over 800 colored photographic flat scenes which extend the full length and height of the stage.

On Tuesday, March 14th the Choral Society will again favor the public with a concert. This Society has never failed to draw large houses and the music is of a high order. Prof. Blount, the leader, has worked faithfully and better music than usual may be looked for.

Prof. Wm. Patty will lecture on medium, liquid air and wireless telegraphy on Friday, March 17th. Mr. Patty will bring with him a large amount of apparatus and give practical demonstrations during the lectures.

Several of the intervening dates will undoubtedly be filled shortly. Manager Osborn is in correspondence with advance agents now and expects to be able to announce further dates, soon.

who stay at home will not do it.

Some have begun to build up this city than the merchants, and it is wrong to have any trade, we cannot do so small, taken from them. It is the same way with our home-living classes. Many come here in the winter to work for board and to deprive home people of employment. They should be an employment of patronage given to people over here.

We as a community, should endeavor to help one another, and turn down those who come here to prey upon the community for a brief season, especially those of whom we have nothing, nor who cannot give for our city or people.

Stand by those who stand by you in the place of mutual prosperity and abiding friendship. We all get pay for our patronage, and deserve protection against the hands of unscrupulous and it is in the best of the future protection will give the home merchants and mechanics.

Florida The Winter Resort.

What would people do in cold climates if there was no place like Florida? It is gratifying to know that there is such a refuge from the winter blues, and to know so many have found it within the past few months. What are known as the East and West coast sections are now filled and we believe one cause so many families here is the influence created by printer's ink, boards of trade and the success of securing substantial trusts of cars and magnificent steamship services for these sections. They help those who help themselves, is verified every day in Florida.

Another cause we would like to add, is that every tourist or winter visitor who comes to Florida once is himself and herself benefactor a living and active advertisement of Florida, its climate and its resources. That is one and a good reason why the number who come to our fair state every season is increasing from year to year, and will so continue until the state will not only be as it is now, the greatest tourist and pleasure seeking rendezvous in the world, but the most densely populated and progressive state in America.

Florida The Winter Resort.

What would people do in cold climates if there was no place like Florida? It is gratifying to know that there is such a refuge from the wintry blasts, and to know so many have found it within the past three months. What are known as the East and West coast sections are well filled and we believe one cause for so many tourists here is the influence exerted by printer's ink, boards of trade and the success of securing palatial trains of cars and magnificent steamship accommodations for these sections. God helps those who help themselves, is verified every day in Florida.

Another cause, we would like to add, is that every tourist or winter visitor who comes to Florida once is himself and herself hereafter a living and active advertisement of Florida, its climate and its resources. That is one and a good reason why the number who come to our fair state every season is increasing from year to year, and will so continue until the state will not only be as it is now, the greatest tourist and pleasure seeking rendezvous in the world, but the most densely populated and progressive state in America.

THE TRAVELER'S STORY.

How a Nervous Man Caused a Severe Strain on His Nerves.

"A traveling man stopped at a hotel at Monticello. The proprietor told him he could not lodge him, not a room in the house," said a commercial traveler. "The traveling man protested. He must have a room. Finally the proprietor told him there was a room, a little room separated by a thin partition from a nervous man, a man who had lived in the house for ten years."

"He is so nervous," said the landlord. "I don't dare put any one in that room. The least noise might give him a nervous spell that would endanger his life."

"Oh, give me a room," said the traveler. "I'll be so quiet I'll not know I'm there."

"Well, the room was given the traveler. He slipped in noiselessly and began to disrobe. He took off one article of clothing after another as quietly as a burglar. At last he came to his shoes. He unlaced a shoe and then, manlike, dropped it.

"The shoe fell to the floor with a great noise. The offending traveler, horrified at what he had done, waited to hear from the nervous man. Not a sound. He took off the second shoe and placed it noiselessly upon the floor. Then in absolute silence he finished undressing and crawled between the sheets.

"Half an hour went by. He had dropped into a doze when there came a tremendous knocking on the partition.

"The traveler sat up in bed, trembling and dismayed. 'Wh-wha-what's the matter?' he asked. Then came the voice of the nervous man:

"Blame you, drop that other shoe!"

Wanted the Result.

"Horse racing is a heroic sport, and to this feature alone is due its intense fascination," said Wallace P. Herndon of Chicago. Mr. Herndon had just come down from a race meeting at La Grange, loaded with his winnings.

"People who condemn the sport seem to forget the heroic feature. 'Recently I perpetrated a sorry trick on one of these folks, and it was a clergyman too. As an eyewitness I described the running of a great handicap, and to make it more interesting I proceeded to color my story a bit to tell how a certain horse was challenged repeatedly from the start and how the race was in doubt to the last moment.

"I left the field a few jumps from the finish. Then I said:

"I knew a famous horseman once who said that a race horse is of interest to only three persons—the kid that rides him, the lobster that bets on him and the thief that owns him."

"Yes, yes," cried the clergyman impatiently, but which of those horses won on the day you spoke of?"—Louisville Herald.

Paradoxical Woman Again.

"I can't understand them at all," complained the white bearded philosopher, muttering into his whiskers and shaking his head dolefully.

"What can't you understand?" asked the man with the pickle nose.

"Women. Now, my daughter has had to buy an automobile habit and seems perfectly satisfied to wear it, although everybody knows she has not the automobile habit."

"She has it, and she hasn't it," mused the pickle nosed man. "That is the answer. If you knew women as well as I do, you'd know those were the facts in the case."—Judge.

Valentine Party.

For SMILE: I got a second hand buggy and harness. I new Quaker bath cabinet, $2.00. I 2 1/2 h. p. De Mooy boat engine, with propeller, 1 Selung jump spark coil. Inquire of J. R. LaSha, Electrician, 221 N. Beach St. fl5-2w

There was a very delightful party at The Cleveland last evening, the occasion being the observance of St. Valentine Day and the anniversary of the birth of Mrs. S. B. Green, the hostess of The Cleveland.

The guests entered into the spirit of the occasion and certainly had a royal good time. The dining room was beautifully decorated by Capt. Geo. E. Brown, of Portland, Maine, assisted by Miss Katherine Lawrence of Cambridge, Mass. The color scheme was red and green. Crepe paper was woven into many artistic designs and with the addition of palm leaves, the dining room, when lighted with red candles, presented a bower of beauty that received the praise of all who were fortunate enough to be present.

At the close of the supper, R. D. Marshall, of Dayton, Ohio, rose and in a few well chosen words presented Mrs. Green with a very handsome alligator bag, pocket book and souvenir spoon from the guests and friends at The Cleveland.

There is no doubt but the sentiment on the heart-shaped valentine which held the most prominent place in the decorations, "Our hostess the best of all valentines," expressed the feelings of everyone who has been a guest of The Cleveland this season.

The evening closed with a card party in which "hearts" was the prevailing game.

Mrs. M. E. Moore delighted those assembled by the excellent music which she furnished for the occasion.

A Comedian's Joke.

A celebrated Irish comedian went into a barber's shop to get shaved and, finding the barber out, he determined to have a little fun before his return. So he took off his coat, put on a thin one and quietly waited for a customer. An old gentleman came in soon. "Shave, sir?" said our pretended barber.

The old gentleman took a chair and the comedian began to laugh, expecting every moment the barber would appear. Five minutes passed and no barber. Five more and still no barber.

The joker began to get desperate and conceived a bright idea. Putting up his brush he quickly changed his coat again, took his hat, and was about to quietly step out behind the gentleman's back when that worthy turned his head and exclaimed:

"Here, sir, aren't you going to shave me?" "No, sir," promptly replied the comedian. "The fact is, we only shave here, sir. They shave four doors below."

Then he bolted out of the door, leaving the indignant old fellow to his wrath.
